FIRE HALL BEING RUSHED TO COMPLETION BY LARGE CREW OF WORKMEN

Building Large and Commodious and of Most Modern Design Inside and Out

COMPLETE IN EVERY DETAIL BEFORE COLD WEATHER

Frontal Architecture Gives Building Imposing Appearance

The appearance of the new fire hall is finer than was thought for by those who were not conversant with the plans and specifications, which call for a building of entirely modern improvements and construction. Now that the building is so far advanced, many have expressed their surprise that such a substantial building was undertaken by the town.

Three arches in the frontal brickwork give the structure an appearance, which is very architectural, the sloping approaches to which are the same as the construction on city fire halls. Altogether the imposing structure is one of great credit to the town.

The building is fifty feet in width and is more than this in length and is two stories high. The first floor will be used for the storage of the different pieces of apparatus and will provide for future needs. In front of the building and under the approach is a large tank, which will hold upwards of fifty thousand gallons of water. The second floor will be used for offices, and a large council chamber will also be provided for. Extending above the building will be a hose tower, which will have space for many lengths of hose.

Before the end of this year, the building will be in use and probably by November 1st. The fire fighting apparatus is now stored in sheds back of Small Bros. furniture store.

IRMA FARMERS CONSIDER CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY

IRMA, Alberta, Sept. 23.—Last Thursday, the third annual fair was held here, and in spite of the cold, threatening weather, quite a large number of farmers came together and the exhibits were well worthy of the reputation the Irma District has gained. Horses, Cattle, Vegetables and fancy work were numerous. A gambling fiend who endeavored to do business was promptly ordered off the grounds.

There is no doubt but that the Irma district is one of the best districts in Alberta for potatoes and Mr. Love's enterprise in buying all the potatoes he can is likely to succeed. His immense potato warehouse is almost completed.

The church celebrated its first Harvest Thanksgiving last Sunday. Splendid decorations beautified the sacred building, while a large crowd filled the pews. The pastor, Rev. F. E. Bothroyd gave a lecture on Newfoundland on Monday night.

Whether or not to establish a Co-operative Society is under consideration of the people of this district at the present time.

Rally day service will be held in the Methodist Church on Sunday next, commencing at 3 p.m.

ESCAPED PRISONER CAPTURED NEAR TOWN OF KILLAM

Swindler who Posed as Gov't. Stock Inspector Taken While Playing New Role

I. D. Ross, who escaped from Constable Wiseman, while being brought here last week to stand trial, has been captured near Killam, where he posed as a detective. Constable Webster, who was returning here from the Coast, joined in the chase for the escaped prisoner and was probably near at hand when he was captured.

When taken into custody at Killam, Ross had a shotgun in his possession, which he was endeavoring to exchange for a revolver. He will be tried at the next sitting of the district court and perhaps at a special sitting here.

AUDIT OF TOWN'S BOOKS SHOWS TAX ROLL IS MISSING

Tax Roll for 1910 and 1911, Together with Two Receipt Books Cannot be Found. Making Complete Audit an Impossibility

FULL INVESTIGATION OF TOWN'S FINANCES

In Justice to Late Secretary-Treasurer and to Town This Should be Done

Following a primary examination of the town books by Auditor Henderson, a chartered accountant of the city of Edmonton, who came here on Saturday last at the wish of the Finance Committee of the municipal council, a special meeting of the civic administrators was held last night to deal with a general report of the town receipts and expenditures since incorporation.

TAX ROLL ARE MISSING

In view of the tax rolls for 1910 and 1911 being lost by late Secretary Fieldhouse, it was found impossible to make a complete audit of the books. How or when these disappeared is considerably in doubt, although it is thought that the book must be in town, for it covers several square feet in area. In addition to the loss of these rolls, both of which are under one separate cover, two tax receipt books are also missing, numbering from 601 to 700 and from 901 to 1,000. It is then only reasonable that a complete audit can be made. A new roll for 1911, can, however, be made up, for Mr. R. A. Snyder, who made up the assessment for that year, more by good luck than anything else, saved his notes and data, after the amounts had been carried forward.

TO NOTIFY BOND HOLDERS

The report of the auditor dealt in a general manner with the finances of the town, no specific statement being rendered. This report was read in council in the presence of Mr. Fieldhouse, who, after the council had gone into committee of the whole, was permitted to explain a few points, which he considered at variance with the facts. The committee then rose and, following the suggestion and recommendation of the auditor in regard to

COUNCIL HAD BUSY SESSION

Public Works Committee to the Fore with Large Number of Recommendations

RINK TO BE LEASED

Certain Buildings Reported on Street and Must be Removed at Once

After the committee arose last night, during which time they considered the report of the chartered accountant, who has been here auditing the books of the town, routine town business was transacted, the greater number of reports being forthcoming from the Public Works Committee of which Coune Crawford is chairman.

Coune Crawford first reported the completion of the cement sidewalks by Contractors Walker & Love and recommended that payment be made, withholding 10 per cent. of the contract price until the stipulated time had passed. Report was also made on the fire tank at the rink and that Contractor Manner had not been on the job since the 18th, last. Recommendation was made that this be proceeded with at once by day work. Coune Crawford also recommended that the amount of lumber, taken over by Contractor Berry on the fire hall, and owned by the Imperial Lumber Co. be paid for. It was also reported that the buildings of the Union Bank, Wainwright Star, and A. Culley were on the street and recommended that they be notified to have same removed at once. Permission was asked by this committee to have rink completed at once as per plans and specifications. All of these reports were received and reported.

Chairman Beaudry of the Property Committee recommended that tenders be posted for renting of skating and curling rink during the winter season. This was received and secretary notified to post notices of tender at once.

The Finance Committee reported the receipt of mortgage from Messrs. C. E. Bird & Co., re-floor mill agreement, which will be referred to the town solicitor for his advice on legality.

Having a complete and thorough investigation, decided to proceed and notify the late secretary's bond holders that certain books were missing, which must be placed in the town's hands. It is then probable that an entirely new roll will be made out at the expense of the bondholders.

AN INVESTIGATION NECESSARY

From what took place at last night's meeting, it is clear that the auditor's report demands an investigation, which should be thorough and complete in every detail. In justice to the town and to the late treasurer this must be done. If the town funds have been improperly and carelessly handled the ratepayers desire the facts. On the other hand if unjust suspicion surrounds Mr. Fieldhouse, it is equally necessary that this be made known and such suspicion cleared if the facts warrant a vindication.

SMOKE MUCH IN EVIDENCE

The town has been surrounded with smoke for several days past as a result of a disastrous prairie fire which swept over the Peace River Country. Several days the sun was almost entirely obscured.

RASCALITY ON PART OF RUFIANS CAUSED COMMOION AT LOCAL DEPOT

Complained of Excessive Charges at Biggar Lunch Counter and Begon to Insult Restaurant Man Here Until He Objected

TOLD WHERE THEY WERE GETTING OFF AT SHORTLY

Ended Their Disgraceful Actions by Throwing Stones Through Restaurant Window

A number of degraded rascals, if this is the worst expression to use, passed through here on the delayed westbound express on Monday night and ate their lunch at the station restaurant. Emerging from the door, they began abusing the restaurant generally and raised their voices in abusive protest against the charges they were compelled to pay. Mr. Freebody, who is in charge of the lunch counter, stepped outside and in a mild manner called their bluff, asking at the same time what they wanted. They replied that they had been charged too much at the Biggar restaurant.

Evidently they had a spite against the Canadian Railway, for they began throwing stones and their line of talk in different directions all over the platform, but certainly not where Mr. Freebody was airing his views as to the advisability of starting something. One claimed he paid thirty cents for a cup of coffee and a sandwich at the Biggar counter. Another said he paid forty cents for the same entables, and still another said he paid fifty cents. They were informed, however, that this was no reason for insulting the Wainwright restaurant.

The most disgraceful part of it came when the train pulled past the station. Stones were thrown against the restaurant and barely missed several ladies who were standing nearby. As it was, several small window panes were broken, but fortunately no one was injured.

Such rascality on the part of these ruffians is deserving of penal servitude, which certainly would have been meted out had they been apprehended. Had it not been for the bold stand taken by Mr. Freebody, who, for the time being and until the train had started, had them cowed in a manner displaying their principle, more damage would undoubtedly have resulted. They were on their way to the front and regrettable to say were lower class Englishmen.

WILL CEASE PUBLISHING

According to last week's Chauvin Advance, the plant of that publication will be removed from Chauvin at early date. The cause for it is given by the editor as the board of trade not living up to its agreement, regarding financial support.

An excellent photograph has been taken by John Gano of the show case, which at present is laden with grains, roots and other products of the soil. It has been greatly admired.

Mr. Amos Church, of Leeds, Megantic, is the guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Church, of Prairie View Mansion.

WILL FIRE TANK BE COMPLETED

Unless Immediate Move is Made Excavation will be an Eyesore at Rink

JOB NOW ABANDONED

Contractor Manner in Failure to Complete Work Must Surrender Deposit Cheque

From all appearances, it will be late this fall before the fire tank at the rink is completed and ready for use, for Contractor Manner, who started this work in July, has again thrown up the job, despite the fact that his marked guarantee cheque will now be surrendered to the town.

The excavation is now about half finished and had not the water hindered, operations would have been completed long ago. It is true that Mr. Manner has met with great difficulties in excavating this tank, although to throw up the job at this late date and thereby lose his deposit cheque is undoubtedly erroneous.

New men will be placed in charge of the work, which will be completed by day labor. On this account and because Mr. Manner refuses to complete the contract, he will stand to lose several hundred dollars.

WANTS TO MEET SMEATHERS

Mike Glent, the Edgerton boxer, who met Smeathers in a preliminary here on the evening of fair day, is very desirous of meeting the same lightweight in an "earnest contest over a ten round route." He is desirous of meeting him here.

Wainwright Council No. 620 Canadian Order of Chosen Friends will meet on Friday, 27th, inst., in Washburn & Mills' hall, when Organizer J. H. Mullett will be present. Every member is urgently requested to attend as there will be important business up for discussion and a banquet to wind up with. Frank W. Bell, Recorder.

Hockey fans held a meeting on Friday night last and appointed officers for a club, which will direct the hockey team for the coming winter. A large attendance was present and it was as enthusiastic as it was large.

The following officers and committee were elected.—Patrons, J. H. Dawson, Mayor Pawling; Honorary President, W. J. Musson; President, W. E. Washburn; Vice Pres., W. I. Isted; Sec-Treas., A. F. Tremouth; Manager, E. K. Smith; Directors, S. E. James, W. J. Leam and W. J. McPhee.

IMPORTANT STEP PROMULGATING FACILITIES IN EDUCATION

Department of Education Ask for Photographs, Relative to Educational Matters — Is Being Followed by Trade Board

NEW ZEALAND FIRST TO ADOPT SCHEME

Interesting Life Studies from Park Have been Forwarded to Department

The board of trade has been asked by the local school board to supply the Department of Education with photographs, relative to the educational facilities prevailing in this vicinity. The secretary has procured a set of pictures showing the school and the pupils and also a very interesting series of life studies from the park, comprising elk, moose, deer and buffalo.

Especially interesting and instructive is the set of pictures taken in the park quite recently by Mr. John Gano, who secured these views at very close range. They have been admired locally and not a few have been sent to foreign parts as the best collection yet taken in the park. These should prove of great interest to the department.

The Department of Education in taking up this matter is following the New Zealand Education Department, who issue a periodical set of photographs with explanatory comments, illustrating the geographical, historical, educational and social conditions existing in various parts of the world.

On another page appears the ad. of F. L. Harris, in connection with B. C. Fruit lands. When answering this advertisement please mention that you saw it in the STAR.

Mr. John Western, who formerly held the position of private secretary to Superintendent Walton, was here this week on a brief shooting trip. Mr. Western is now located in Winnipeg, where he has a lucrative position.

CROP YIELD FAR BETTER THAN WAS THOUGHT FOR EARLIER IN THE YEAR

With Threshing Operations Started in the District Farmers Express Surprise

YIELD WILL UNDOUBTEDLY BE FAR ABOVE AVERAGE

Oats Heavy and will Average in Vicinity of 100 Bushels

Progress already made by threshermen in this district shows results even better than was thought for when operations were in full swing. It is now reported that the average yields will far exceed the former estimates and that grades will be markedly better. Certainly this must be most satisfactory to the farmers, and to the businessmen of this community, who transact business with them.

Of the flax yield very little is yet known, for an amount sufficient to strike an average has not yet been threshed. Wheat will easily average twenty-five bushels to the acre and may reach thirty, although the fore part of the season gave a yield of about twenty bushels. What the average grade will be is uncertain. There will be an abundance of No. 1 Northern and several experts report they have seen no small amount of No. 1 Hard. A safe average would be around the number crop and will yield a very high average. Those who have already threshed, state that oats will average ninety bushels. Certain farmers, who have the experience of other localities where they harvested bumper crops, are of the opinion that one hundred bushels will be reached. Barley is also a good crop and will grade well.

More information, relative to the year's crop, will be forthcoming when the elevator and flour mill are in full swing. The above however is a fair estimate of what results have been this year, and it is not thought that they are very far astray.

"MOVIES" WILL BE SEEN HERE THIS WINTER SURE

This is the Assurance Given by S. E. James, President Board of Trade

President James, of the board of trade assures the STAR that a moving picture show will be enjoyed here this winter and that an immediate start will be made to have the place of entertainment in operation at a very early date.

When it was announced a short time ago that Messrs. Small Bros. had abandoned the idea of erecting an opera house here, the board of trade was in receipt of various communications from picture show men, who thought Wainwright was a very desirable location. A man from Lettbridge was finally located in the person of Mr. J. H. Hosley who is confident that this town will show munificent returns.

Have You Fallen for Them?

A man with a monia for answering advertisements had some interesting experiences. He learned that by sending one dollar to a Yankee he could get a cure for drunkenness. And he did. It was to "take the plague and keep it."

Then he sent fifty cents to find out how to raise turnips successfully. He found out. Just take hold of the tops and lift.

Being young he wished to marry and sent thirty-four one-cent stamps to a Chicago firm for information as how to make an impression. When the answer came it read, "Sit down on a pan of dough."

Next advertisement he answered read, "How to double your money in six months." He was told to convert his money into bills, fold them, and thus double his money.

Next he sent for twelve useful household articles and got a package of needles.

He was slow to learn, so he sent one dollar to find out "how to get rich." "Work hard and never spend a cent." That stopped him.

But his brother wrote to find out how to write without pen and ink. He was told to use lead pencil.

He paid one dollar to learn how to live without work, and was told on a postal card, "Flit for flit-marks, as we do."

Mr. Richard Craig and son, of Vermilion, is a guest of Mr. James Church, also Mr. and Mrs. E. Symes and children of Battle View.

WAINWRIGHT ALTA, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25 1912

ABSOLUTELY the best yet and in the history of the district in the manner in which Wainwright's fourth crop is spoken of by farmers, citizens and all who have had an opportunity of viewing the result of the year's operations.

Until this year, it has always been claimed that Wainwright's is a mixed farming district, where grain would never ripen in time for harvest. Now it is claimed by many that the time is fast approaching when this district will also be productive of much profit from grain-growing. Of this there hardly seems any doubt. In this, even the regions of the far north, the Peace River country and even farther into the colder communities will produce the best of wheat and other grains, and superior grades of grain cannot be obtained if they are even touched by frost. It is but natural that as a country is developed, frost will become a thing of the past. More broken soil is exposed during the day, which in turn gives forth its heat during the hours of darkness. The broken ground becomes a storehouse for heat which is precipitated with the falling frost.

ABSOLUTELY THE BEST YET

Many have hailed the agitation for mixed farming with a certain degree of ridicule. In time it may be looked upon in this light by a greater number than at present and from what the 1912 harvest has shown it is clearly evident that a rapid approach is being made in such a direction. Mixed farming is still profitable however.

ALAW, providing for the ringing of the curfew, has been introduced and carried by several Alberta towns and the good features of the same are readily discernable. It provides that all children under fourteen years of age shall not be found on the street after the curfew rings at nine o'clock in the evening, unless in the company of parents or a guardian or the production of a satisfactory excuse.

The purpose of such a by-law is good and will likely prove so, in the event of it being fulfilled. Children of this age have no right on the streets or in public places after the stipulated hour, and if the same by-law could be submitted here, careless but perhaps loving parents would be relieved of a certain responsibility, which in after years must be fully realized, and in the failure of which they are sometimes made to regret.

It is a recognised fact that children of this day and generation are allowed many privileges which in former years were unheard of. It was then that curfew ring strict rules were enforced. Children were not seen on the streets after dark. But the passing of a very few years has brought about a noticeable change. More and more as time passes are the children receiving more privileges than were enjoyed by their parents or those of past generations.

In submitting a by-law of this kind to the people, the town would place itself on record as having a direct tendency to protect the young in all that pertained to character and sound morality. Furthermore, this protection would do much to train the young in the way that they should go, build up a sound and moral manhood and have a watchful care until the real difference between right and wrong is properly realized.

PROGRESSIVENESS is a faculty, which in the majority of cases marks the success of an intelligent businessman, and has been noted for the past eight months, it can likewise be applied to the successful trend of a town. This has been largely noticeable on the part of the local board of trade, which body has shown an ability to grasp conditions as they are in the outside world and by publicity methods to induce numerous settlers to locate here.

Since the year's work has been taken over, no opportunity has been lost to spread broadcast the resonant sounds, which in the majority of cases have proved sufficient to induce a great many to indirectly interest themselves in this town or district or show their faith in the future of both by deciding to make their home here.

From even remotest parts have not only the inquisitive but even the interested come, and in the majority of cases the class of newcomers has been of that kind, which goes to make up a prosperous and successful community.

As a direct result of this progressiveness, Wainwright is today looked upon with more or less envy, by others who vie with the prosperity and development of the town. This can largely be credited to the apparent ability of the trade board to set forth the many advantages of this town and district.

LARGE shortages are from time to time discovered in the accounts of the missing bank clerk. From the increase of thefts in this respect during the past few years, it would appear that this is becoming a mania, and one which is due to the ridiculously small salary given clerks. The Toronto Globe, in dealing with certain defalcations in Toronto, summarizes the facts as follows—

"A desired good seems within reach; only a moral prohibition intervenes; the warnings of some other man's experience are stifled by the insinuating assurance, 'Ye shall not surely die.' Then the rude awakening, the driving out, and the fiery Nemesis making hard the way of return."

"And the tragedy of the bank clerk sometimes raises questions concerning the business of the bank. He must be educated, alert, of good social standing, and his dress and deportment must be such as bring credit to the bank."

POORLY PAID But his salary is scarcely a living wage, his rate of promotion is slow and every day he deals with the accounts of others less gifted than himself who far outstrip him in the race.

"Every day his chief fraternizes with men who gamble on land booms and on the stock-market margins, and who win or lose by some lucky chance, and often to the loss or gain of someone else. The chance to gamble is round the corner of any downtown square. He takes the chance, he wins and—he loses. Then he himself is lost. The descent to the police court and the prison is easy, sometimes the course is swift, always the end is hard."

It used to be a true saying and one worthy to be believed that supply and demand regulated prices, but in recent years on this continent the consumer has been more and more deeply filled with the conviction that there are other features, relative to the market which regulate, or rather distort the purchasing power of his earnings.

Corporations continue to merge, the trusts stalk throughout the land. Manipulators corner the market and tie up the products of the soil, while cold storage is still another factor in a situation which becomes more interesting every day to even the casual student of economics.

So far, 1912 has marked a record in the number of strikes which have been declared by labor against the control of capital. The fact would seem to indicate that with prosperity comes the abuse of prosperity, and were it not for unions amongst the laboring classes we would have before us the ruinous picture of a steady increase in profits and dividends for the manufacturer and wholesaler, with no proportionate increase in the earnings of the workman.

The wage is one thing and the purchasing power another, and while trusts and mergers are sometimes defended by a plea of larger output, and consequently lessened cost in production, the facts of the case are that combines have regulated production in order to keep up prices. Concentration is their keynote to success, while competition is almost entirely eliminated.

Reports for the past month, however, have indicated a slight decrease in the cost of living. This is partially due to the season of the year. Labor conditions seem more settled and crop conditions are generally favorable. On these situations should prices be regulated, although it is invariably the case that capital octopus dictates what these prices shall be and shall not be.

From this year's frost scare, although any direct cause for serious alarm has been found insufficient, it is almost apparent that an earlier start will be made next spring with seeding operations than was typical of this year's preparations. Earlier varieties of seed will be selected and experimented with. In doing this, it is absolutely unnecessary to import seed that may prove of less value than the quality of that grown here.

Since last week, directors of the agricultural society have come in for a natural amount of favorable mention as a result of Wainwright's fair being such a distinctive success. Admittedly the fair was held under certain difficulties, which naturally caused blunders and entirely excusable errors. These will be surmounted next year, in view of past experience.

A newspaper is one of the prime necessities in developing any town or district. Since the inception of this publication an effort in this respect has been made, which, we believe, has proved a noticeable feature. To outline a policy in the beginning and carry it through to a finish has proved difficult on certain occasions.

That publicity pays is a maxim, the truth of which has been accepted without question by this day and generation. Upon it western boards of trade have worked and achieved good results. A community that aspires to a position of importance must first get itself before the world.

Nothing in the way of even rumour is heard these days of the Battleford line, on which so much reckoning has been made for the past two years. Construction on the new road seems at a standstill, and even the location line into Alberta has not finally been staked. It is from railway officials, however, that the line will be here next year.

The Grain Grower's Guide has not yet ceased to wage an aggressive warfare against the protected interests of Canada and still contends that reciprocity would deliver a body blow to these manufacturers. It seems about time that this publication settled down to something of greater interest to Canada generally.

"Mother, I think sometimes you are rather a beast. Agnes said once, 'You women are beasts when they are so used for money.' I am anxious to save you from what I went through. As a matter of fact, I really care for you, Agnes. You are the only person for whom I've ever put myself out, and I've done a lot for you."

"That is quite true, mother. Then now is the time to show your gratitude. We'll have a party, and then you must make yourself pretty. It's fortunate you haven't time to get mourning-black now. You'll look You'd better wear that pink gown from your trousseau, and the hat to match."

"No, Agnes answered with decision. I will wear something dark, and nothing but mother's. I may not change her from this decision."

Mrs. Layard had believed in treating her daughter with absolute frankness, and later she had been right. Agnes had acted wisely. Fifth, Agnes had shown no sign of active rebellion, but there had now again been a quiet opposition that had given her mother cause for anxiety.

When they reached Pump Court, Swayne appeared in answer to their knock.

Mrs. Layard, you will find Basil in the room straight ahead, he said, and then turned to Mrs. Layard. "I hope you will not mind coming in to this little room."

There was a little air about Basil when Agnes entered, but his face immediately brightened, and he came to her.

"I am so glad you have come, he said impulsively. What a fool he had been to think that his love for this beautiful girl was dead! The sight of her had aroused his passion, and he took her in his arms, kissing her repeatedly, but she gently but firmly disengaged herself from his embrace."

"Basil, I want a serious talk with you, and I've a lot to say before mother joins us. I am a fairly well-to-do man, and I believe that this tragedy has come to save us from great unhappiness."

It is easy to say this now that I am divorced and without money, he said bitterly.

That is unfair. Mother told me that you still had several thousands a year.

I have given that up to the creditors. I did not know that I am sorry for an affair you'll never believe in my honesty. But, Basil, I never cared for you. Mother urged me to marry you, and we were very young. Your kisses—your loving words, were they all lies? he cried passionately.

They were nothing but a piece of play-acting. I always liked you as a friend, but as a lover, I never loved you. And yet, if this had not happened we should now be husband and wife. Thank God we are saved from that. I don't understand you, he said dazedly; and now she had become all the more desirable.

She rose and faced him, deep compassion in her eyes. I feel so much, telling you this, when you are in such trouble. If I could help you, I would. I have been used to play my part, but it is better that it should come now. I am ashamed, but I've never had a change of going straight. Ever since I was a girl I have been divided into my own little world and a world of others. I can remember the day she told me, 'I'm sixteen, and you're only fifteen. I don't want you. You're my first friend, and I liked you—oh, so much, in an intimate way. I didn't want a husband, but I wanted a friend. But I hadn't the courage to defy my mother and her friends. I went to the Marquess of Manby, I deliberately laid myself out to win your love. And you, you were so good, but all the time I was feeling a beast. There was a sob in her voice; but her words had touched Basil's pride, and he had been his heart.

Perhaps it is as well that we could never marry. I am without a penny, and with the name of Thorne."

I do feel a brute, Basil, in spite of what I've said. I am still anxious to marry you.

And your mother? I must leave her, he said desperately. I must leave her, he said desperately.

Because I have hated like a woman. But I don't believe I'm so wicked. I am speaking the truth."

She was facing him, and he took her face between his hands, and touched her forehead with his lips.

I'm glad you've been quite frank—and, I'll try to be glad that you do not love me. It is better so, for I'm not fit to marry any woman. As soon as possible I intend to leave England."

What shall I say to mother? She thinks you have this money. She is determined that we shall marry. Agnes said nervously.

Leave her to me—and then he took her hand, and he said, "I will take all the blame, and you shall suffer."

Basil, I am very glad that you have loved me. You've been saved from much misery. Shall I go for Mrs. Layard?"

She placed her hand on his shoulder. My dear, I wish you all the luck in the world. May you meet a good woman who will care for you as you deserve, she said earnestly, and kissing him on the cheek.

Basil flinched and was about to speak but refrained. He threw open the door and called to Mrs. Layard. She came into the room and glanced quickly from one to the other.

My dear boy, I am overwhelmed with distress, but I must not make you forget, she said hurriedly. We have been discussing the future."

Layard, I am a fairly well-to-do man, and I believe that this tragedy has come to save us from great unhappiness. After all that has happened I shall not marry, he answered with quiet decision.

Mrs. Layard started at him, and her eyes were full of suspicion. An unexpected announcement had been broken off so easily. Have you actually signed any papers giving over this money?

Not yet—to-morrow I have an appointment to do so. Then you must cancel the appointment. I see no reason why you should not be married. There is no necessity for you to be angry."

Mrs. Layard turned toward Swayne for confirmation. "Don't you agree with me?"

I am afraid I have no right to say for them, but I do not want to see conscience directed. You are as big a fool as he is, she said to Mrs. Layard, who was looking at her with a pitying look.

I think I will retire, Swayne said. Mother, this marriage will not take place, Agnes intervened quickly; then she turned to Mrs. Layard. "Good-bye, and the best of luck. You will let me hear from you sometimes."

Good-bye, Basil repeated mechanically. Mother, we will go. Mrs. Layard was looking at him with a look of a lost soul.

Am I to understand that this marriage is cancelled? I have your word, she demanded of Agnes. Fate has intervened. Your daughter is not willing to marry him. Would you mind sitting at this table and writing down the name of your bank?"

His face became painfully flushed, perhaps with shame. Poverty is a terrible thing, and we've had a painful struggle, but I don't like to see the end of her arm and led her gently to the table.

Please don't say any more. I am decided. Mrs. Layard slowly wrote a few lines; but when she arose her face was turned from him.

SPECIAL RATES FOR EXHIBITORS

One Way First Class. Pass to the Great Dry-Farming Exposition at Lethbridge, Alta., next October. The exhibition of grain, grasses and root crops, farm machinery and implements over held in Western Canada, and probably the largest of its kind ever held on the American Continent. Applications for entry forms have been received by Chairman McNeil of the Exposition committee from nearly every quarter of the globe and through diplomatic sources are to the effect that nearly all of the South American countries, Argentina, Uruguay, Turkey, Russia and the United States will send federal exhibits. It is stated that the United States exhibit will eclipse anything that has ever been undertaken by the department of agriculture. While the million of Canada will collect and stage an enormous exhibit of the products of the soil from agricultural farms and the fairs, and the provinces of British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will have exceptionally large and interesting displays.

Throughout Alberta and Saskatchewan great interest is being manifested and in many sections the farmers are already engaged in carrying out this spring and summer's work on one square foot and pay particular attention to the product with the view of the very best possible to be grown.

The department of agriculture has been active in encouraging the farmers to make an extraordinary provincial exhibit, as well as district exhibits and the Saskatchewan commission has applied for 10,000 square feet of space and called to Mrs. Layard. She came into the room and glanced quickly from one to the other.

My dear boy, I am overwhelmed with distress, but I must not make you forget, she said hurriedly. We have been discussing the future."

History of Centuries Ago

We wear things and use things daily of the origin of which we have not the slightest idea, and were we to be asked concerning their history we would be at a loss to answer.

The razor, illustrated when two young men will be easily dressed, was a well-known picture of the life of the ancient Egyptians. It was exhibited in a shop window. One of the men remarked, while looking at the picture, that he wondered how the Egyptians kept their faces smooth and whether they ever shaved, and if they shaved, what they used for razors like this. Neither of the men could answer the question, and so they immediately consulted various authorities on the subject and found to their surprise, that razors were used for shaving in a very early part of the world's history.

The Egyptians used some kind of a razor, though the Levitical code expressly forbade the shaving of the beard. It is believed the primitive shaving instrument was made of sharpened flint. Savages in the remote islands scattered throughout the Pacific, and in some places of flint of the same size for this purpose and pieces of shells or shark's teeth are also used.

Messrs. A. E. Mills and W. E. Washburn, two of the most formidable sportsmen in the town, had great luck one morning last week, when they shot no less than sixty ducks at Baytor Lake.

Mrs. Marie Gunyen will give a dance and reception at her home north of town on Friday evening next, in honour of her daughter, Miss Jeanne Weaver who will shortly leave for Dakota.

Mr. A. G. Martin, who has been working in Edmonton for sometime past and who lately visited his home here, has returned to that city to take charge of a crew of men in the building line.

SIDEWALKS NOW COMPLETED

All work on the cement side walks has been completed, as also is that on the cement crossing. It is doubtful if there is any town in western Canada with as much cement walks as Wainwright can boast of. More will be built next year.

Evidently the G. T. P. does not intend placing cement walks from the end of the town pavements to the station door, which work was promised sometime ago, according to certain reports. This would give an additional fine appearance to the street.

PAID $2.50 FOR WHEAT

One of the best crops in this vicinity is that being harvested by Mr. E. L. Brock, a prosperous farmer near Greenshields, who it is stated has seventy-five acres of the best wheat in these parts. He paid $3.50 per bushel for his seed.

THE WISE MAN

Does not buy his lumber on the basis of price only. He realizes that it is not so much what he pays, but what he gets for what he pays, that counts.

As one of our customers remarked the other day the first cost is not the last cost.

There are many "looks" in the lumber business, we have none baited. In no other line, perhaps, do you rely so strongly on the honesty of the dealer.

Ask our customers what sort of treatment they get at this yard.
